

...complexity in organisational decision-making situations and the need for diversity

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

...and ...

The first causal construct, pressures to use collaborative technology, reflects the pressures experienced the same way, the possible values of the three constructs are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The first construct is the degree of moral intensity. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The second construct is the degree of moral maturity. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The third construct is the degree of moral awareness. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The fourth construct is the degree of moral judgment. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The fifth construct is the degree of moral action. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The sixth construct is the degree of moral responsibility. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The seventh construct is the degree of moral accountability. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The eighth construct is the degree of moral integrity. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The ninth construct is the degree of moral character. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The tenth construct is the degree of moral identity. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The eleventh construct is the degree of moral reputation. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The twelfth construct is the degree of moral standing. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The thirteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The fourteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The fifteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The sixteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The seventeenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The eighteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.

The nineteenth construct is the degree of moral stature. The possible values of this construct are used to elaborate on the findings of the study.